Events of Yesterday.

Felix Anderson was held in $500 for trial by Judge Snell yesterday for embezzling $400 from F. K. Ward.

Elphozo Youngs' advertisement this morning must certainly interest every housekeeper in its details. Read it by all means.

Joseph V. Grant has been appointed an additional private for duty at the boundary street sewer, without compensation from the district.

Dr. Edwin Gibbs, of Lexington, Va., was married last week at the residence of ex-Gov.
J. F. Lewis, Lynwood, to Miss W. L. Lewis, the latter's daughter.

Frederick Rump, by a bill in equity, asks for the substitution of a trustee for Jacob Rump, a church, published on Monday, to the editor of the Washington Globe, of this city.

Several complaints have been made lately of the bad condition of the concrete pavement on H street, between First and Second streets, southeast. After a rain the potholes stand in the street until they are dried up by the sun.

One divorce was turned out in the equity court yesterday. Justice Coste annulling the bond of marriage between Elizabeth Lee and William H. Lee. Mrs. Lee charged that her husband had committed adultery with Mary Rucker.

The first complimentary reception of the Colon Veterans Corps (G. O. C.) will take place at Masonic temple next Tuesday evening.
Cards are already out, and the hearty welcome usually extended by the veterans to their friends will be repeated on this occasion.

Mr. E. C. Weaver and wife, by a bill in equity against George M. White, alias Win-"Chase," pray that the defendant be enjoined from dividing or subdividing of square 14, and that he be directed to account for a certain amount of money he owes to the property of Margaret A. Weaver in her own right.

At the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Literary society last night, the new readings and lectures, and a discussion of "The Discovery of the magnetic needle has been of more advantage to the world than the discovery of steam to navigation," was discussed. The society will hold its regular meeting and elect officers next Tuesday.

The commissioners have concurred in the opinion of the attorney that the H. D. Cooke assessments are subject to all the provisions of the act of congress relating to the revision of special assessments, and call for the issue of drafts, as contemplated by those acts.

Accordingly they will be issued to the holders of such assessments, and they will be subject to the provisions of the act.

In the case of the Washington Schuetzen

Judge Coste yesterday rendered a decision dismissing the attachment, discharging the retaining order, and said the parties could bring on the case, and the case will be brought on for trial on the 11th inst.

The VERY BEST MEAT—This sort of meat generally breaks down to too much attention to business and not enough attention to health.
He who has a good constitution, and who can stand the racket. He becomes nervous, irritable, and despondent. When he is taken from his front line, he also begins to experience nervous strength. Mr. J. Mitchell Block, 421 Market Street, is a case in point.
For chronic dyspepsia and general debility, his condition is the best possible. ready. I suffered horribly for two years.
Since using it I feel as if I had new life and blood put in me.

WITNESSES WANTED.

A Gambling Case Likely to Go by Default for Lack of Testimony.

The grand jury has met with considerable embarrassment in its investigation of the gambling case against Richard Harris and others.
The case was set for 20th inst., when the witnesses were called. There were no witnesses present, and the subpoenas were returned unserved, the officers failing to find the persons wanted.

When the case reached the police court, the prosecution was not prepared to proceed, and the case was postponed. The examination was resumed, and the list was finished without resulting in a verdict. A venire of twenty-five names was ordered.

nent streets and avenues, making them desir-

Meridian hill is undoubtedly by any of the city's suburbs for a villa residence, and particularly are the lots included in Thursday's sale adapted for this purpose. Terms liberal.

A Sensible Non-Resistant Memorial.

One of the most appropriate observances of the centennial of Mr. Moses Montefiore was the opening of the Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids in New York. The first idea of this institution was due to Mr. A. S. Solomon, of

POLICE CLUBS AND PISTOLS.

Judge Snell and Maj. Dye Admonish the Force on Their Too Free Use.

William A. Wilson, of 406 Eighth street southwest, was tried in the police court yesterday for assaulting Officer Dunnington while the officer was trying to arrest him for assaulting his wife. The defendant claimed that the officer had brutally clubbed him, and showed him a cut on his head. Judge Snell fined him $5, and remarked that it is necessary for an officer to use his club in discharge of his duty, which is justifiable under certain circumstances, it must be in the sound discretion of the officer.

Maj. Dye has issued a circular relative to the use of pistols by officers. He says that they should be used only in urgent cases and in such a manner that the lives of innocent persons may not be jeopardized. He adds that the pistol should never be drawn unless the officer is justified in using it, never drawn or discharged for purposes of intimidation.

Mr. HENRY DETTERT, Centralia, Pa., states that St. Jacobs Oil, the wonderful pain reliever, is just the thing for rheumatism.

A Billed Liquor-Seller Fined.

An old billed colored woman named Mary Collins, who keeps a candy store on the common of East Washington, was fined $105 in the police court yesterday for selling liquor without a license. The testimony of some of the witnesses showed that liquor was sold there, which was denied by the defendant and her daughter. An appeal was taken.

Mrs. LAMOTHE's first appearance in public was as a reader, she read "Curing a Cold," by Mark Twain. In a recent interview she said that she had been reading "Curing a Cold," but herself used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, a sure cure every time.

A DIZZY HEIGHT.

The Risk Run by Daring Workmen on the Washington Monument.

As the public begin to realize that at last, after all these long years, the Washington monument is actually nearing completion, the interest manifested has increased to a remarkable degree. No day passes while work is in operation on the shaft that hundreds of opera and field glasses are not used eagerly watching the working on the top, who, even with the aid of powerful glasses, look scarcely larger than huge flies crawling slowly about. "As the shaft grows higher now," said Col. Casey "my workmen are obliged to take greater care.
They are not sailors, and although most of them are some extent growing accustomed to climbing at such a great height, they unlike the sailor, must work without anything to cling to for security. A single false step, a slight stumble, a little loss of balance, would be apt to leave nothing but the steel resembling a human being, whether the fall is to the ground or to the top of the shaft.
As they go higher they grow more careful, instead of becoming used to it and careless of their danger. For this reason I anticipate that each of the upper courses, which are so much smaller in horizontal surface, will take as much time to place in position as those at the base of the cap. Besides this reason, the working space grows smaller, fewer men can be employed on the top. If the cold continues it will take more time to set the stones than if the weather were milder.
The temperature will be an element in hastening or delaying the completion of the work, but it will be finished long before the time fixed upon for the dedication.

President Arthur and the other members of the monument commission, on their visit to the monument, will have their attention called to the memorial presentation tablets of metal and stone intended originally to be placed in the walls of the shaft, with a view to a selection of such as will be proper to put in position.
